Paper Title:	Research Methods-II	Exam Duration: 4 Hours

The aim of this Paper is to introduce the techniques and approaches of conducting research using qualitative and quantitative research methods. The Paper focuses on the recent methods that are quite extensively used in qualitative data collection. The Paper will include discussion on research techniques,, theories, concepts, hypothesis, research design and protocols undertaken by anthropologists.

Paper Contents:

Part-1: Qualitative Approach

A. Qualitative approach: Overview, diversity in qualitative research, feminism and post modernism, common theme within the diversity.
B. Designing qualitative research: Grounded theory: theory generation vs. theory verification, use of literature in grounded theory research.
C. Techniques in Applied Research: Participatory Rural Appraisal (PRA), Rapid Rural Appraisal (RRA), Actor oriented approach(AOA), Participatory Action Research(PAR), PLE, ICT (Information and Communication Technology) in applied anthropological research, free listing, ranking, pile sorting, pocket voting.
D. Ethnography and ethnographic representation: Applied ethnography, Auto ethnography, post-modern applied ethnography.
E. Preparation of questionnaires; Transferring data from questionnaires to master sheets; Compilation and presentation of qualitative data;Organization and management of field notes;
F. Analysing Qualitative Data: Management of numerical dats; Coding,content analysis,ATLAS/TI, Anthropac, matrix analysis.
G. Monitoring and Evaluation: Qualitative and quantitative tools, tools in use.

Part-2: Quantitative approach:

H. Quantitative research design: Background, variables: independent, dependent and control variables, experiment, quasi-experiment and non-experimental designs.
I. Collecting Quantitative Data: Sampling, structured interview and secondary sources.
J. Analysing Quantitative Data: Excel, SPSS, STRATA, EPI-INFO.
K. Analyzing quantitative data: Summarizing quantitative data cross tabulation and contingency tables, analysis of variance, correlation and regression, analysis of survey data, factor analysis and report writing.

Paper Title:	Language, Society and Culture	Exam Duration: 4 Hours

At the beginning concerns among many of the anthropologists were, why and how language could be useful in the study of culture. Later, language both as an independent system and as a part of the culture became a significant field of inquiry. This Paper will consider those diversified theoretical developments in study of language. However, understanding of the relations of meaning eventually leads to the understanding of the relations of power. Parallels between the social transformation and that of the language will also be addressed in exploring the relationship between society, culture and language.

Paper Contents:

A. From Anthropological Linguistics to the Linguistic Anthropology;
Boas in recognizing the significance of language in Anthropology.
On the relationship between language and culture: Sapir-Whorf hypothesis.
Attempt in understanding the speaking: Hymes.

B. Theoretical concerns in understanding Language
Structural Perspective and the Sub systems of Language: Phoneme, Morpheme, Semantics, Syntax.
Language as a system of sign: Saussure.
Language and the search for mathematical principles: Levi-Strauss.
Transformational-Generative Grammar: Chomsky.
Language mediating between psychological and social: Vygotsky.
Meaning through dialogue: Bakhtin

C. From Language to Culture and Power:
Exploring the relations of meaning and relations of power;
From Language to Culture and Meta-language: Barthes' semiotics.
Not alone Language but DisPaper: Foucault on Power and Knowledge

D. Social Historical approach in studying Language;
Relationship of Language to diverse social categories, i.e., Gender, Class or Ethnicity etc.

Paper Title:	Emerging Issues in Anthropology	Exam Duration: 4 Hours

This Paper aims to provide students with theoretical orientation to develop analytical skill on practical issues of our lives and living in contemporary times. Since the notion of 'contemporary-ness' changes over time, contents for this Paper is not fixed up beforehand. The Paper therefore will be designed based on the recommended topics suggested by the academic committee of the department. The academic committee of the department will suggest at least ten contemporary topics for the respective year to offer under this Paper. Assigned Paper teacher will basically focus on the theoretical and methodological knowledge of the discipline on how anthropology/anthropologist reflects having disciplinary knowledge upon the suggested topics. However, Paper teacher will be given freedom, not absolute authority, to choose the topics at his/her convenience.

Some examples of emerging issues are given below:

Environmental and climate change; Civil society; Terrorism; NGOs and development; Microcredit; Religious fundamentalism; Globalization and new colonialism; Human rights in the Third World; Free Market economy
